

Is the use of surveillance cameras in public places a good thing? 1回目

I think the use of surveillance cameras in public places is a good thing. There are several reasons why I think that way.

First, surveillance cameras restrain criminal activities. Criminals hesitate to commit crimes in front of cameras because they do not want to be caught by the police. For example, security in London has been improved after government installed cameras as counter measures against terrorist attacks. Now London is a safe city where we can enjoy night life.

In addition, surveillance cameras are very effective in searching for criminal suspects. The police have captured thefts, robberies and even murderers by consulting cameras. Actually there were bomb explosions at the site of Boston marathon and the suspects were promptly arrested thanks to cameras. The quick apprehension eased the US citizens even though some were killed or injured.

Finally, I would like to discuss problems concerning privacy. Several people insist that surveillance cameras infringe privacy. Certainly it may be dangerous when the government can check our activities. However, if the use of such cameras is strictly controlled by law, cameras will not do harm to our society. Moreover, cameras are installed in public places, not in private spaces. This will have a little impact on our lives.

In conclusion, the use of surveillance cameras is beneficial to reduce criminal acts and arrest criminals. Regarding a concern about privacy violation, the government should make a guideline first. Then installing cameras should be promoted to keep our society safe.
