

Will Japan's declining birthrate be a national crisis?

Decreasing the number of children will definitely leads the country to critical circumstances.

1. Should the government do enough to solve the lower birthrate issue in Japan?

Japan Should provide couples with more financial support.

2. Should Japan hire more foreign workers?

Yes. We are facing an aging society. So we need more laborforces.

3. Will the lower birthrate increase in a decade?

Yes. The government has been dealing with the issue but still a lot of young couples
